NOTES TO CONDENSED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS (UNAUDITED)

1. CONDENSED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

The accompanying condensed consolidated financial statements have been prepared by Network Appliance, Inc. (the Company) without audit and reflect all adjustments which are, in the opinion of management, necessary for a fair presentation of the financial position and the results of operations of the Company for the interim periods. The statements have been prepared in accordance with the regulations of the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC). Accordingly, they do not include all information and footnotes required by generally accepted accounting principles. The results of operations for the three and six month periods ended October 25, 1996 are not necessarily indicative of the operating results to be expected for the full fiscal year or future operating periods. The information included in this report should be read in conjunction with the audited financial statements and notes thereto for the fiscal year ended April 30, 1996 and the risk factors as set forth in the Company's Annual Report on Form 10-K, including, without limitation, risks relating to history of operating losses, fluctuating operating results, dependence on new products, rapid technological change, dependence on growth in the network file server market, expansion of international operations, product concentration, changing product mix, competition, recent management additions, management of expanding operations, dependence on high quality components, dependence on proprietary technology, intellectual property rights, dependence on key personnel, volatility of stock price, shares eligible for future sale, concentration of stock ownership, effect of certain anti-takeover provisions and dilution. Any party interested in reviewing these publicly available documents should write to the SEC or the Chief Financial Officer of the Company.

3. NET INCOME PER SHARE

Net income per share is computed using the weighted average number of common and common equivalent shares outstanding during the period. Common equivalent shares include preferred stock (using the "if converted" method) and stock options and warrants (using the treasury stock method). Common equivalent shares are excluded from the computation if their effect is anti-dilutive.

4. LITIGATION SETTLEMENT

In July 1994, the Company and certain of its former employees were named as defendants in a lawsuit which alleged that one of the Company's founders, who left the Company in March 1995, misappropriated confidential information prior to the Company's founding in April 1992.

In August 1996, the Company reached a settlement with the plaintiffs which resulted in a charge to earnings of $4.3 million in the first quarter of fiscal 1997, which included a $3.5 million payment to the plaintiffs and $800,000 of legal fees. The payment released the Company from all liabilities associated with the case. The Company has no future obligations to the plaintiffs. The Company denies any wrongdoing on its part or on the part of the founder.

ITEM 2. MANAGEMENT'S DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS OF FINANCIAL CONDITION AND RESULTS OF OPERATIONS

OVERVIEW

Network Appliance was incorporated in April 1992 to design, manufacture, market and support network data storage appliances. In September 1995, the Company introduced the NetApp F330, a rack-mounted, Pentium and PCI bus-based filer, and in January 1996, the Company introduced the NetApp F220, a rack-mounted, Pentium and PCI bus-based filer designed for workgroup and LAN environments. In May 1996, the Company introduced the NetApp F540, an enterprise-class file server appliance. The Company's filer products combine specialized proprietary software and state-of-the-art industry standard hardware to provide a unique solution for the NFS server market.

The Company believes that its continued growth and profitability is dependent in part on the successful expansion of its international operations, and therefore, has committed significant resources to international sales.

RESULTS OF OPERATIONS

The following table sets forth certain consolidated statement of operations data as a percentage of net sales for the periods indicated.

Net Sales. Net sales increased by approximately 110.0% from $10.0 million for the three months ended October 27, 1995 to $21.0 million for the three months ended October 25, 1996. For the six month period ended October 25, 1996, net sales of $39.5 million reflect an increase of 124% over the comparable period of fiscal 1996. The increase in net sales in these periods resulted primarily from the Company's continuing expansion of its domestic direct sales force, as well as the growth of its domestic indirect sales channel and international direct sales channel, increased market acceptance of the Company's products and the introduction of the NetApp F330, F220 and F540. The Company also shipped more units directly to end users, which generally purchase more highly configured systems at higher average selling prices than resellers.

Gross Margin. Gross margin increased from 54.7% for the three months ended October 27, 1995 to 59.2% for the three months ended October 25, 1996. Gross margin for the six months ended October 25, 1996 was 59.1%, compared to 54.2% for the comparable period of fiscal 1996. This increase in gross margin was primarily attributable to lower costs of key components and manufacturing efficiencies achieved during the three and six month periods ended October 25, 1996, both of which were related to the significant increase in production volume. These factors offset the effect of increased sales of highly configured systems during these periods which generally generate lower gross margins per system.

The Company's gross margin has been and will continue to be affected by a variety of factors, including competition, product configuration, direct versus indirect sales, the mix and average selling prices of products, new product introductions and enhancements, and the cost of components and manufacturing labor. In particular, the Company's gross margin varies based upon the configuration of systems that are sold and whether they are sold directly or through indirect channels. The Company offers products in both highly configured systems, as well as in minimally configured systems. Typically, highly configured systems generate lower overall gross margins due to greater disk drive and memory content. Highly configured systems are generally sold directly to end users.

Sales and Marketing. Sales and marketing expenses consist primarily of salaries, commissions, advertising and promotional expenses and customer service and support costs. Sales and marketing expenses increased 93.0% from $2.9 million for the three months ended October 27, 1995 to $5.5 million for the three months ended October 25, 1996. For the six months ended October 25, 1996, sales and marketing expense of $10.2 million reflects an increase of 99.7% over the comparable period of fiscal 1996. These expenses were 26.3% and 28.6% of net sales for the three months ended October 25, 1996 and October 27, 1995, respectively, and were 25.8% and 29.0%, respectively, of net sales for the six months then ended. The increase in absolute dollars was primarily related to the expansion of the Company's sales and marketing organization, particularly increases in the domestic and international sales forces, and increased commission expenses related to higher sales volumes. The Company expects to continue to increase its sales and marketing expenses in an effort to expand domestic and international markets, introduce new products, and establish and expand new distribution channels.

Research and Development. Research and development expenses consist primarily of salaries and benefits, prototype expenses, and fees paid to outside consultants. Research and development expenses increased 103.5% from $973,000 for the three months ended October 27, 1995 to $2.0 million for the three months ended October 25, 1996. These expenses represented 9.4% and 9.7% of net sales for the quarters ended October 25, 1996 and October 27, 1995, respectively. For the six month periods, research and development expenses increased 112.8% from $1.7 million in fiscal 1996 to $3.7 million in fiscal 1997 and represented 9.4% and 9.9% of net sales, respectively, for those periods. These expenses increased in absolute dollars primarily as a result of increased headcount, consulting fees, prototyping expenses associated with the development of new products and ongoing support of current and future product development and enhancement efforts. The Company believes that significant investments in research and development will be required to remain competitive and expects that such expenditures will continue to increase in absolute dollars. To date, no software development costs have been capitalized as amounts that qualify for capitalization have been immaterial.

General and Administrative. General and administrative expenses were approximately $932,000 in the three months ended October 25, 1996, compared to $534,000 in the three months ended October 27, 1995. These expenses represented 4.4% and 5.3%, respectively, of net sales for such periods. For the six month periods, general and administrative expenses increased 104.2% from $1.1 million in fiscal 1996 to $2.2 million in fiscal 1997 and represented 6.0% and 5.5% of net sales, respectively, for those periods. Increases in general and administrative expenses related primarily to certain litigation expenses, increased staffing, professional fees, facilities expansion and related occupancy costs and information system investments necessary to manage and support the Company's growth. The Company believes that its general and administrative expenses will increase as the Company continues to build its infrastructure.

Litigation Settlement. In July 1994, the Company and certain of its former employees were named as defendants in a lawsuit which alleged that one of the Company's founders, who left the Company in March 1995, misappropriated confidential information prior to the Company's founding in April 1992. In August 1996, the Company reached a settlement with the plaintiffs which resulted in a charge to earnings of $4.3 million in the quarter ended July 26, 1996, which included a $3.5 million payment to the plaintiffs and $800,000 of legal fees. The payment released the Company from all liabilities associated with the case. The Company has no future obligations to the plaintiffs.

Other Income, net. Other income, net, was approximately $261,000 and $(13,000) in the three months ended October 25, 1996 and October 27, 1995, respectively. During the six months ended October 25, 1996 and October 27, 1995, other income, net, was approximately $552,000 and $(9,000), respectively. In each of these periods, other income, net, represented less than 2% of net sales. Other income, net, increased in the three and six month periods ended October 25, 1996 compared to the same periods of the prior year due primarily to interest income earned on the net proceeds of approximately $25.7 million from the Company's initial public offering that was completed in November 1995.

Provision for Income Taxes. In fiscal 1996, the Company's federal and state income tax liabilities were offset by the realization of a portion of its net deferred tax assets, and accordingly no provision for income taxes was incurred in the three and six months ended October 27, 1995. The Company has recorded a provision for income taxes in the three and six months ended October 25, 1996 utilizing an income tax rate of 35%, which is the anticipated effective tax rate for fiscal 1997.

The Company's quarterly operating results have in the past varied and may in the future vary significantly depending on a number of factors, including the level of competition; the size and timing of significant orders; product configuration and mix; market acceptance of new products and product enhancements; new product announcements or introductions by the Company or its competitors; deferrals of customer orders in anticipation of new products or product enhancements; changes in pricing by the Company or its competitors; the ability of the Company to develop, introduce and market new products and product enhancements on a timely basis; hardware component costs; supply constraints; the Company's success in expanding its sales and marketing programs; technological changes in the network file server market; the mix of sales among the Company's sales channels; levels of expenditure on research and development; changes in Company strategy; personnel changes; general economic trends and other factors. Although the Company has not experienced seasonality in the past, because of the significant seasonal effects experienced within the industry and the Company's goal to expand international sales, there can be no assurance that the Company's future operating results will not be adversely affected by seasonality.

Sales for any future quarter are not predictable with any significant degree of certainty. The Company generally operates with limited order backlog because its products typically are shipped shortly after orders are received. As a result, product sales in any quarter are generally dependent on orders booked and shipped in that quarter. Product sales are also difficult to forecast because the network file server market is rapidly evolving and the Company's sales cycle varies substantially from customer to customer. A significant portion of the Company's revenues in any quarter may be derived from sales to a limited number of customers. Any significant deferral of these sales could have a material adverse effect on the Company's results of operations in any particular quarter; and to the extent that significant sales occur earlier than expected, operating results for subsequent quarters may be adversely affected. The Company's expense levels are based, in part, on its expectations as to future sales. As a result, if sales levels are below expectations, net income may be disproportionately affected. Although the Company has experienced significant revenue growth in recent periods, the Company does not believe such growth is indicative of future operating results. The Company believes that period-to-period comparisons of its results of operations are not necessarily meaningful and should not be relied upon as an indicator of future performance. Due to all of the foregoing factors, it is possible that in some future quarter the Company's operating results may be below the expectations of public market analysts and investors. In such event, the price of the Company's Common Stock would likely be materially adversely affected.

This Form 10-Q contains forward-looking statements about future results which are subject to risks and uncertainties. Network Appliance's actual results may differ significantly from the results discussed in the forward-looking statements. The Company is subject to a variety of other additional risk factors, more fully described in the Company's Annual Report on Form 10-K filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

LIQUIDITY AND CAPITAL RESOURCES

As of October 25, 1996, the Company's liquidity primarily consisted of cash and cash equivalents of $15.2 million and short-term investments of $8.8 million.

The Company used cash from operating activities totaling $1.8 million in the six months ended October 25, 1996 and generated cash from operating activities totaling $97,000 in the six months ended October 27, 1995. The use of cash in the six months ended October 25, 1996 was primarily attributable to the settlement of a lawsuit which resulted in the payment of $4.3 million in the quarter ended October 25, 1996, an increase in accounts receivable of $5.5 million and an increase in inventories of $3.5 million, partially offset by net income of $2.3 million. Net cash provided by operating activities in the six months ended October 27, 1995 principally related to net income of $1.6 million, offset by increases in accounts receivable and inventories and a decrease in accounts payable.

The Company used approximately $2.2 million and $1.2 million of cash during the six months ended October 25, 1996 and October 27, 1995, respectively, to purchase property and equipment. In addition, the Company used approximately $5.9 million in the six months ended October 25, 1996 to purchase short-term investments. Financing activities provided $486,000 and $1.4 million during the six months ended October 25, 1996 and October 27, 1995, respectively, due primarily to the sale of common stock in the first six months of fiscal 1997 and the issuance of long-term debt in the first quarter of fiscal 1996.

The Company currently has no significant capital commitments other than commitments under operating and capital leases. The Company believes that its existing liquidity will satisfy the Company's projected working capital and other cash requirements for at least the next twelve months.

PART II. OTHER INFORMATION

ITEM 1. LEGAL PROCEEDINGS

In July 1994, the Whipsaw group, Robert and Ellen Cousins, and certain other individuals (collectively the "Whipsaw Group") filed suit alleging breach of contract, breach of fiduciary duty, fraud, misappropriation of trade secrets and other related claims against the Company, Michael Malcolm (a former officer), Owen Brown and Migration Software Systems, Ltd. (the "Whipsaw Litigation"). The plaintiffs allege that they disclosed trade secrets and proprietary information to Messrs. Brown and Malcolm under written and/or oral confidentiality agreements, and that Messrs. Brown and Malcolm misappropriated those trade secrets and that the Company is based entirely on the trade secrets and proprietary information misappropriated from the Whipsaw Group. On August 14, 1996, the Company agreed to settle this lawsuit brought against them by the Whipsaw Group. In connection with the settlement, the Company recorded a pre-tax charge of $4.3 million in the quarter ended July 26, 1996, which included a $3.5 million payment to the plaintiffs and $800,000 of legal fees. The total settlement with the plaintiffs consisted of a single cash payment made in the second quarter of fiscal 1997 and released the Company from all liabilities.
